Earning the money

Being introduced to code

The tasks were fun to attempt and Matthew gave great advice on programming and statistics in general

Learning how to analyse my own data using simulations and p-values to test the significance of my findings.

Learning about new ways to approach statistical analysis and how by combining computer programming was very interesting

Not stuffy teacher

Tutor was very helpful, overall the course helped my understanding of the subject, and how science works in terms of data collection and analysis of data.
